

Radiance: Self-Compassion for Eating and Weight Concerns

ABOUT THE PROGRAM:

The program was developed by Clinical Psychologists, Dr. Kiera Buchanan and Dr Stan Steindl, and Dietitian, Kate Pollard, to address the missing ingredient in typical interventions aimed at improving eating behaviour and body-image; self-compassion.

Through taking a Compassion-Focused Therapy approach, the program explores the role of self-criticism in maintaining eating, weight, and body image concerns in both males and females and goes on to assist participants in developing skills in awareness and compassion as a means of better managing these concerns.
